

WILD about Endangered Species at ZooAmerica®!

A Professional Development Opportunity for Educators

April 8, 2010

This workshop is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Game Commission and ZooAmerica North American Wildlife Park

Why are some species endangered while others are flourishing? Join the PA Game Commission and ZooAmerica educators to examine the concepts and issues surrounding threatened and endangered species, explore the natural history of endangered and threatened species, investigate "how" and "why" species become endangered and threatened, examine laws affecting these species and explore methods biologists are using in species reintroduction. This workshop correlates with the Environment and Ecology Standards and is approved for 6 ACT 48 hours and includes a field exploration of the diverse North American species found at ZooAmerica!

Featuring:

- A closer look at the Endangered Species ACT
- Investigation of endangered and threatened species on state, federal and global levels
- Examining issues that affect threatened and endangered species
- Hands-on activities for use with students in the classroom and outdoors
- An "up close and personal" look at threatened and endangered species at ZooAmerica
- Standards based and ACT 48 hours provided.
